The Committee and Membership (at the AGM) of the British Geotechnical Association have confirmed that there will be no change in subscription rates for 2012. The subscriptions for 2011 are included for record purposes.

All membership grades to receive Ground Engineering (except Retired – Life Member) and membership of either the International Society for Soil Mechanics and Geotechnical Engineering or the International Society for Rock Mechanics (except Retired – Life Member and Corporate). Membership of both societies is available for an additional fee of £10.

 Retired – Life Membership is free to members who are over the age of 65 and have been members of the BGA for at least five consecutive years. This membership does not include Ground Engineering or membership of either of the international societies. However, members will receive all information on meetings etc (as normally sent with Ground Engineering).

In order to keep subscriptions at this rate, Ground Engineering have agreed not to increase their rates for 2012. It should be noted that the ICE still contributes to the running of the BGA by providing discounted costs for lecture space for the evening meetings and Annual BGA Conference, support personnel and use of committee rooms.
